NEW BOOKS

AMERICAN FOREST POLICY by L.H. Gulick. New York, Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 1951.
252 p. 99.61 G94.

Mr. Gulick gives a complete analysis of our American forest policy. He shows how public ownership has grown, what problems this has created, and how these have been solved or left unsolved. He deals with the central question- how has the government sought to influence the economy, through what devices, and with what results.

DECIDUOUS FORESTS OF EASTERN NORTH AMERICA by E.L. Braun. Philadelphia, Blakiston, 1950. 596 p. 99.11 B73.

" While primarily a reference book, it is also a textbook. The author portrays what is present in any geographic area and reconstructs the pattern of original forest, gives data on composition and aspect of forest communities in all parts of the deciduous forest, and traces through geologic time the development of the present pattern of forest distribution." Preface.

GRASSLAND AND GRASSLAND PRODUCTS, by S.J. Watson. London, Arnold, 1951. 200 p. 60.1 W33.

A summary of lectures delivered at the University of London on grassland husbandry; composition, management and utilization.

THE ORIGIN, VARIATION, IMMUNITY AND BREEDING OF CULTIVATED PLANTS by N.I. Vavilov. Chronica Botanica, vol. 13, nos. 1-6. 1949/50. K.S. Chester, trans.

A collection of studies in the method and history of biology and agriculture.

SUBTROPICAL GARDENING IN FLORIDA by N. Smiley. Miami, University of Miami Press, c1951. 182 p. 97 Sm4.

This book was written especially for the warmer part of Florida. Gardening in subtropical Florida is year round. Plants for this climate and their use are described. Other books to help the newcomers to Florida are Dr. David Fairchild's books. Garden Islands of the Great East, The World Grows Round My Door, and The World Was My Garden. (These books are also available from the Atlanta Branch).
